

Chapter XXIV: The Conclusion (You Thought It Was Over, Huh?)

Zombie: I think you've gone literally mad.

Spider: Yeah, that's not how the story went at all!

Creeper: Hey I'm telling the complete and honest story! These words are directly from the scrolls! I even cited my sources!

Skeleton: Okay first of all, Entity 303 was never named "Lary", Dreadlord LOVED names with more than 4 syllables.

Husk: He did. And also, there were way more Jurassic Park references than that.

Zombie: I will give it to you, Witherzilla betraying Herobrine was on-point.

Creeper: Alright you guys believe what you want, but all the Runes of STIDRELM tell the exact same story as I.

Spider: Okay that's another thing. It was MILD REST! Not-

Zombie: MILD REST?? Ha HA! It was TRIM SLED!

Skeleton: Whatever it was, the most important flaw- who the heck is Markus Persson??

Creeper: Shut up!! This is one of the most elaborate stories ever, now don't screw it up like this! Maybe the scrolls misprinted a few letters, but gosh dang it this is an essential piece of-Slash.

Husk: Oh shoot.

Zombie: ...He he, okay who had 2:30?

Stab! Slash! Thunk! The creeper hit the 4th wall.

Creepers: ...What the? Is that an audience? Wait! Don't process the information I just narrated, or else there could be a-

SMASH!

Steve: ...Hey Alex, look.

Alex: Oh.

Steve: Oh, did you pick up the potions?

Alex: Yeah.

Steve: Okay good.

Alex: ...Sorry about that, but king and queen mean very different things when you live here.

Steve: Yeah I mean we're only 25. It's not like we know how to run a business, or pay taxes.

Alex: Do we even need to do that?

Steve: I don't think it's really necessary.

Alex: ...Yeah Earth is weird.

Steve: It is.

Alex: Alright let's go scoop lava into buckets and then hold them with our bare hands.

Steve: Right, bye all!

The camera pans over prospering cities and flourishing environments, Minecraft and all the Universe would be safe from the evil Bloodlust illness, so much good was done, and all from the people that were there to recognize it. The camera flies backwards and through a long distance of land, and it ends with the title falling upon its preceding tiers...

PIXELS ARE JUST CUBIC ATOMS

(THE END)

Bloodlust is a fictional mental illness that causes people to want to kill, and it was only containable by using a black hole. However there are many mental illnesses and abnormalities out there that cause people pain and suffering. If you have a confirmed mental illness, you are not alone, everyone has something upstairs that they feel takes control of them. A mental illness is no joke and you are encouraged to get help if you feel that it is causing you suffering, or even if you are confused about it and want to know more. Surround yourself with people that you know will support you and help you, because as much control as you think you've lost, you've got that much control to gain once you learn to take advantage of it...

34,422 (gross) words! 91,242 (gross) words overall!! This is so POG!!

Credits

(-That I will have to learn to do later because there's a whole bunch of legal stuff that I'm not very familiar with yet)